Vein Clinics of America Opens New Center in Trevese, Pennsylvania

Trevese, PA. – December 22, 2010 – Vein Clinics of America (VCA), the largest network of physicians in the United States specializing in the minimally invasive treatment of varicose vein disease, has opened a new location in Trevese, PA. Gay Fried, MD will be the practicing physician at the new office which is located at 6 Neshaminy Interplex, in Suite 113. VCA now has 41 locations nationally, with this being the 2nd in Pennsylvania. For nearly 30 years, VCA has specialized in a wide spectrum of vein disease, including varicose veins, spider veins and venous leg ulcers.

"I am excited to be a part of the VCA team and look forward to providing our patients with comprehensive care for their chronic vein problems. It is rewarding for both physicians and patients to see the results we are able to achieve helping to alleviate the discomfort and pain brought on by this progressive condition," stated Gay Fried, MD practicing physician in the Trevese office.

Vein disease is more than just a cosmetic problem. Ignoring it can result in symptoms such as pain, fatigue, itching, burning and swelling. Sufferers can experience throbbing and restlessness, where they feel the need to constantly keep their legs moving. Vein disease is a progressive condition that will only get worse if left untreated.

VCA's network of physicians utilize a comprehensive, minimally invasive treatment approach including Endovenous Laser Treatment (ELT) and Ultrasound-Guided Sclerotherapy. The average patient requires Sclerotherapy in conjunction with ELT to treat the smaller veins. VCA's network of physicians' use of Sclerotherapy, combined with ELT, allows them to treat the smallest spider vein to the largest ropelike varicose vein, and even venous leg ulcers. Neither option requires hospitalization or surgery. Instead each is performed in the physician's office. To schedule an appointment, call 1-800-660-VEIN or visit veinclinics.com.
